selection as "Most Hated." Our editorial staff couldn't agree more.

Can anyone ever forget that memorable night in Tampa when a fiery Dusty Rhodes attained a lifetime's dream and won the NWA title? Few moments in sports have been as soaked in human drama as that incredible championship night.

Rhodes won an unprecedented second consecutive "Most Popular" award. The gent from Texas evokes a shriek of adoration in any arena he graces.

Ivan Putski and Tito Santana demonstrated that two decent men can work together. For their stunning triumph over the Valiant Brothers for the WWF title, Putski and Santana were voted "Tag Team of the Year."

A young masked man with the aerial abilities of a muscular Piper Jet was acclaimed as "Rookie of the Year." His name is Sweet Brown Sugar.

IN REVIEW

For his consistent courage and determination in the face of adversity, three-time NWA champion Harley Race was voted "Wrestler of the Year."

Conversely, fans cited Greg Valentine's barbaric sadism and soulless brutality as the principle reasons for his Guiding a wrestler to the title is one of achievement. Yet keeping him there is another, even more difficult type of accomplishment. Fans overwhelmingly cited Arnold Skoaland, manager of WWF champion Bob Backlund, as "Manager of the Year."

"Most Improved" vote. And fans decided that Chief Jay Strongbow's remarkable recovery from a broken right leg at the hands of Greg Valentine earned him "Inspirational Wrestler of the Year." □

E VIL MINDS AND evil men breed successful tag teams. Unfortunately, it's a wrestling truism fully supported by fact. Many of the top tag teams have been men whose warped souls integrate into one hideously effective entity.

The Valiant Brothers. The Lumberjacks. The Samoans. The Executioners. Names which sour the memory. Yet names whose success are an unpleasant reality. Good guys simply don't hold together tag teams as well as rulebreakers.

Many so-called experts have speculated on the reasons for this curious condition.

Now, Tito Santana and Ivan Putski shatter tradition. They are a successful, at times brilliant, tag team. They are WWF champions. And the fans have voted them "Tag Team of the Year."

"What? Really? Wow, this is super, I mean, I'm overwhelmed," rambled Santana when he learned the results. "To be given this honor, by the fans no less, is the second-best thing that's ever happened to me."

"Obviously, winning the title with Ivan was the best," said Santana, smiling.

Though accustomed to winning praise for his individual play, Putski finds acclaim as a tag team member uniquely delightful.

"There is nothing like the feeling of accomplishment you receive as part of a winning combination," said Putski. "Two men willing to submerge individual desires for the betterment of the team is, well, a wonderful feeling."

"Too bad bad guys tend to receive so much attention," Putski continued. "I don't know why there are so many bad guy tag teams and why they do so well. Maybe because rulebreakers are basically cowards and need someone to back up their rear, while good guys are confident alone, knowing they have the forces of good behind them."

Illuminating the isolation of Putski and Santana is the nature of the next runners-up, The Valiant Brothers.

EVERY SO OFTEN, a rookie brightens the wrestling sky with unexpected poise and brilliance. A young man by the name of Sweet Brown Sugar has thrilled wrestling fans across Florida with his unique brand of skill and charm. For these reasons, Sugar has been acclaimed 1979's "Rookie of the Year."

"This has to be the biggest thrill of my life," said Sugar. "All my life, I've worked real hard to get to this stage where fans would show their appreciation. I don't know if someone can fully understand the emotion, but when a fan gives you his loyalty, it's very important."

"From what I can see, fans don't change loyalties, wrestlers do. What I mean is wrestlers will turn around and start breaking rules and misusing loyalty. Understandably, fans will get angry and feel betrayed," said Sugar.

"I want all my fans to know they've placed their faith and love in the proper person,"

WHO CAN EVER forget that night? Dusty Rhodes against Harley Race for the NWA title. Outside, Tampa sweltered under a sizzling August evening. Inside, fans crammed, strained and screamed themselves hoarse from excitement. More than "Match of the Year," the first Rhodes-Race match must go down as one of the greatest in history.

Drama soaked every facet of this titantic struggle. Yet the ending must be the single-most memorable part of the bout.

Rhodes was wavering, struggling to stand. Race scampered atop the rope and prepared to leap upon Rhodes for the final maneuver. As Race neared his supine target, Rhodes lifted his elbow to protect himself. Race drilled into the elbow and toppled over. Pushing aside surprise, Rhodes delivered three straight bionic elbowsmashes for the victory. And the cherished NWA championship.

Two fan comments encapsulate the meaning of this match.

"I cried for days with joy," said Tanya Shelton of Miami.

"In all my 20 years, nothing has thrilled me like this match," said Steven Hayes of Tampa.

Many thrilling matches clamored for the top spot in 1979. WWF champion Bob Backlund was involved in two of them.

A steel cage match is one of wrestling's more hideous creations. Such a bout compels courage on a level rarely attained by men. Backlund had CERTAIN EVENTS PRODUCE their own legacies. That tumultuous NWA week in August, when Dusty Rhodes won the title from Harley Race, has in just a few short months become part of wrestling legend.

Wrestling will never forget that week. From the votes of our fans, neither will you. By a narrow margin, Race was acclaimed "Wrestler of the Year" over the American Dream, Dusty Rhodes.

"I've been the best wrestler for years," snapped Race. "What makes you think some stupid contest is gonna make me good? I'm good without the contest."

Nothing like a gracious winner. Yet Race did win, making examination of his 1979 accomplishments necessary. This past year, Race joined legendary Lou Thesz as the only man to ever win the NWA title three times. Thesz has achieved that six times. Remarkable.

"You better be mean and tough to win the title three times," said Race. "I did it four times. Think what that makes me."

In Japan, Race edged closer to Thesz's amazing mark when he lost and then defeated Baba the Giant within a span of a few days.

"When you're the best, people are shoutin' at you. Refs let them get away with anything because you're the champ, they're the chumps and you're supposed to handle them," Race said. "Hell, I wrestle fair. Tough, but fair. I aim to demonstrate that subtle difference to as many cheats with the guts to take me on."

A FAMILIAR GROWL answered the phone on the fifth ring.

"Yeah, what you want?"

"Greg Valentine, this is Stu Saks from SPORTS REVIEW ANNUAL."

"Oh, the punk. What you want?"

"Well, uh, we wanted to tell you that the, uh, the fans have voted you, uh . . ."

"I got a steak burnin', punk. Talk."

"Uh, fans voted you 'Most Hated.'"

Barking laughter echoed over the phone, followed by the pounding of a receiver. Only Valentine would be pleased by such a dubious award.

This particular category generates the most comments on the ballots. Those voting for Valentine wrote ". . . a disgusting vermin" and "let someone break his leg" to "he makes me sick." These remarks typified fan reaction.

Valentine's abuses center around his sadistic, almost non-human approach to wrestling. Notably, Chief Jay Strongbow sustained a broken right leg and several preliminary wrestlers suffered severe injuries at Valentine's legs.

Yes, legs, not hands. His misuse of the figure-four leglock, an honorable maneuver in the hands of decent men, has provoked calls for his banishment. Maybe next year.

If Valentine is a blood-thirsty sadist, runner-up Terry Funk is a certifiable maniac. Fiercely loyal to both family and Texas, Funk's principles evaporate once he enters the ring. (Continued on page 58)

FOR YEARS, Dusty Rhodes suffered under the stigmatic label of "most popular wrestler never to win a major title." That dubious acclaim pained Rhodes.

"In a way, I'm appreciative of fans lovin' me and all. Hell, no one loves his fans more than me," said Dusty. "But I wanted both. I wanted to be the most popular wrestler who was champion to boot. Thank heavens I finally did it. The agony was about to choke me up."

This past August in Tampa, Rhodes defeated Harley Race for the NWA title. Because of that and other factors, Rhodes narrowly edged Andre the Giant for the prestigious "Most Popular Wrestler of the Year."

"Winnin' this award for the second straight year makes me very, very happy," said Rhodes. "Winnin' a title is something you do yourself, two guys diggin' and fightin' for a title. That's a very personal crusade which no one can really help you with, despite fans screaming and urgin' you on."

"But this award is something special to me. When a wrestler wins this, he knows the fans out there love him. After all, without the fans, where are any of us?" Rhodes said.

Finishing second in the fans' hearts was Andre the Giant. The margin, however, was so slight as to make any distinction between first and second irrelevant.

"Awards and trophies are nice," said Andre. "But you cannot measure affection by votes. Whether I win this category or not doesn't matter. What counts are all my fans it measured by the quality of his play? The quality and quantity of opponents?

Tommy Rich exemplifies many of these characteristics. Last year's "Rookie of the Year" has made another important step toward superstardom when fans voted him this season's "Most Improved Wrestler."

"You're kidding me," Rich said, stunned. "I mean, really? I won most improved? I, I can't believe it."

This time last year, Rich was a green rookie still awed by professional wrestling.

"Yeah, I was kinda wet behind the ears," he said. "Fortunately, I had friends like Tim Woods and Mr. Wrestling II who guided me and supported me. They made sure I got over the bumps a rookie goes through if he expects to amount to anything."

Rich amounted to a lot more than just "anything." Recently, the young blond startled the rulebreaker world with a triumph over Killer Karl Kox for the Georgia heavyweight championship.

"That, wow, that night was amazing," Rich recalled. "Like any dream, you always wonder exactly what it will be like to become champion. No matter how much you imagine the feeling, it's never quite like reality."

"For days, I was in a happy fog. Every few minutes, at least it seemed every few minutes, I'd take the belt out and look it over," Rich said, grinning. "This has been one incredible year. Winning this award from

CHIEF JAY STRONGBOW is not a man who likes to burden others with his problems. "Everybody has problems," he says, "Why inflict yours on somebody else."

Chief Jay Strongbow substitutes that statement for saying, "thank you, but I don't want anybody's pity."

Strongbow never announced the fact that his career very nearly did not survive the decade. In the horrifying incident in which Greg Valentine broke his leg, Strongbow also suffered severe cartilage and ligament damage. It was not just recommended that he quit wrestling, but he was ordered to quit wrestling by one of the most renowned orthopedic specialists in the nation. Strongbow never considered following that order.

"Doc, don't tell me I have to quit," he said. "Just tell me the best way to rehabilitate myself. I'm coming back."

Not a single fan who voted Chief Jay Strongbow the award of "Inspirational Wrestler of the Year" knew just how courageous the Chief really is. The true medical facts are just now being revealed.

Over the next few months Strongbow underwent an intensive rehabilitation program with the use of Nautilus weights. And when he wasn't working out, he would sit in the stands and watch Valentine wrestle. He remained silent, but always within Valentine's sights. Valentine learned to fear his presence. And by the time Strongbow made his remarkable return, Greg was petrified

LIKE ALEXANDER THE GREAT, Napoleon, and Ulysses S. Grant, Arnold Skoaland has had to endure the skeptics who refused to believe in the ultimate success of his plans.

"First time I ever saw Bob Backlund, I knew he'd be champ," said Skoaland, 1979's Manager of the Year. "And as soon as I said that, everyone scoffed and said he was too young and Superstar Graham would eat him for dinner. I hate to say I told you so, but, well, I told you so."

That sixth sense of determining what rests inside a man's soul is what separates a good manager from a great one. Skoaland says he can look into a man's eyes, see his soul and know if the wrestler has what it takes.

"First time I met Bruno [Sammartino], I could tell he would be a star," said Skoaland. "Bruno had a fire that adversity could never quell. And Backlund has the same drive.

"Few years ago, this young man came up to me after one of the matches at the Garden and asked if I'd handle his career. Now this kid was talented, make no mistake about that," Arnold said. "But he would never be champion. And, I'm genuinely sorry to say, I was correct. He's a good wrestler, but not of championship caliber. Either you have the burning fires, determination, courage, and patience, or you don't."

Skoaland sees his job as a combination of wrestling adviser, financial consultant, and personal friend.

"When all the reporters and fans are gone, a wrestler's manager is the one person he turns to for help," said Skoaland. "I'll never turn Bob away. He's my friend."

A different type of manager placed second in the balloting. Whereas Skoaland is calm and even-tempered, Captain Lou Albano is volatile and unpredictable. Yet Albano insists he

Perhaps the most magnificent series of apartment wrestling battles were between Cynara and Salome (above and below). These two splendid beauties, their bodies hard and taut with a majesty unequalled in any two other combatants. A popular young poet once compared their cataclysmic confrontations as "the gods allowing us to glimpse the power of Olympus."

Few people will ever forget the bout in which a furious brawler from Atlanta, Scarlett, traveled to New York to challenge Cynara. As the photos show, Scarlett had a few good moments (above). For most of the match, though, Scarlett suffered the agonies of any woman who faced Cynara (top and below).

Fitness is my business

I RECOMMEND BULLWORKER®
BECAUSE IT'S FAST,
IT'S EASY AND IT REALLY WORKS!

Bob Breton says "I earn my living by keeping top executives in peak physical shape. My clients insist on maximum results with minimum time and effort. I recommend Bullworker because it's fast, it's easy and it really works."

Most men know they're not getting enough exercise to keep their bodies in shape.

Ten years as a fitness coach has taught me one important fact: most men will not stick with a training program long enough for it to do them any good, unless the training is fast, easy and shows results right away.

Bullworker gets a top score on all three counts:

—it's fast: each exercise takes only 7 seconds and the complete workout can be done in about five minutes
—it's easy: any man between 15 and 65 in good general health can perform the full program without getting tired

—you see your results right from the very first day on the built-in Power-meter gauge. After two to three weeks of regular training, most men can expect to measure an extra inch or two of muscle on their shoulders, chest and biceps—and an inch or two less flab around the middle.

And that's just the start: there are specialized exercises for building-up or trimming-down any part of your body you want to. What's more since Bullworker training is progressive, you perform better each time. Yet the training always seems easy since with every workout your strength increases by about 1%—that's an increase of up to 50% in just three months, and I've seen many men go on to double and even triple their strength. For my money, Bullworker is the most advanced home trainer on the market. I use it and recommend it to any man who wants to get back in top shape fast.

CYNARA

TAG TEAM OF THE YEAR

2nd Place—
THE VALIANT BROTHERS

"Fans voted us second?" sneered Jerry Valiant. "Since when do wrestling fans read and write? I thought all they could do was scream out their stupid words for their stupid favorites like Backlund or Sammartino."

Next finisher was Paul Jones and Baron Von Raschke.

"Fans! Where are they when I need them?" asked Jones. "Now they want to vote for me. Well, tell them what they can do with their ballots, buster."

"I don't recognize wrestling fans," said Von Raschke. "As far as I'm concerned, we'd be better off barring them from arenas."

And fourth was Spoiler and Mark Lewin.

"Votes, ballots, awards, what's it all mean?" shouted Lewin. "Only thing of consequence is who wins the match. Me and Spoiler are unbeaten, so that's the only contest we care about. Fans voting in. What a joke." ☐ need agility and strength or else the entire maneuver collapses. Many factors go into a successful maneuver. If one is messed up, everything falls apart. So concentration is also needed."

Another outstanding wrestler placed a close second to Sugar in the balloting. Steve Travis, who confronts rulebreakers across the nation, was overwhelmed.

"Could you believe that? I can't," Travis babbled. "Think of it, fans writing my name on their ballots and mailing them in. Makes everything worthwhile, know what I mean?"

A relative newcomer to both wrestling and the way of civilization finished third. Bryan St. John is proud of his growing reputation as a "punk."

"I don't think of myself as a punk, but I know what the idiots mean when they call me that," snapped St. John. "Means they're jealous of my looks and talent. Means they can't stand the thought of me whipping and demolishing all the fool scientific wrestlers across Florida.

"As for this fan stuff, I could care less. I know who my real fans are and they don't waste their time voting, that's for sure," said St. John.

In fourth place was a talented wrestler with a family tradition to uphold, Eddie Gilbert.

"It isn't easy having a famous father," Gilbert said. "But Dad taught me a great deal about wrestling and life. If it wasn't for him, I wouldn't be where I am today." □

Sugar said, his voice wavering. "I would never, ever turn my back on the fans. Ever."

Sugar combines aerial gymnastics with muscular maneuvers to produce a formidable package.

"It's no secret that Mil Mascaras is my idol," said Sugar. "As far as I'm concerned, Mascaras is the greatest. Flying dropkicks must be the most difficult maneuver to use. You to dig deep, but he found the courage. A pity his foe was Pat Patterson, a man who knows little about courage except that which he observes in others.

MATCH OF THE YEAR

2nd Place—PAT PATTERSON VS. BOB BACKLUND

In this steel cage match at Madison Square Garden, the blood flowed like wine at a wedding. When the veined bottles had dried up, Backlund still held the WWF title. Somehow, he'd survived the fiendish assault.

Before a capacity crowd in Toronto, Backlund took on AWA champion Nick Bockwinkel. Perhaps Bockwinkel was Backlund's toughest opponent. The AWA champ's shrewd strategy can unravel the best laid plans of scientific wrestlers. This match pitted brains against brains, brawn against brawn.

If Bockwinkel thought he could cheat his way to victory, Backlund showed him the error of his ways. Too often, matches are described as textbook bouts. Too often, such descriptions are inaccurate. Not this time. The Backlund-Bockwinkel bout in Toronto was a classic battle.

In fourth place was Good vs. Evil. Surely no two wrestlers so embody those diametrically opposed philosophies as Mr. Wrestling II and Ernie Ladd.

II, a gentle masked man, shirks no challenge. When given the opportunity to meet Ladd, II eagerly accepted. The results of that decision was a match filled with ferocity and brilliance. Fans voted this fourth place. □

WRESTLER OF THE YEAR

Both Race and Rhodes resent their connection, a link both are eager to destroy.

"Rhodes got lucky once. I showed his win was luck by the way I annihilated him the third time we met," said Race. "Look how many times we wrestle, see how many times I won and how often he won? Get the message?"

"I make no excuses, no claims, no threats, no nothin' except to say that the Dream will be back. He will be back in force in 1980 and he will be the NWA champion for years and years," said Rhodes. "Fans are tired of hearin' about Race, wrestlers are tired, writers hate to type his name, and I'm sick of his lousy luck.

"Put 1980 down as the year Harley Race leaves wrestling," said Rhodes.

Fans surprised everyone with their third-place selection of Jimmy Snuka. Tough Snuka didn't finish as close to Rhodes and Race as the margin separating the top two, but he did beat out a number of top-notch grapplers.

In specific terms, Snuka's most notable achievement was to capture the U.S. Heavyweight title vacated by Ric Flair. Shortly after winning the title, Snuka successfully defended the belt against former champ Flair in a savage bout.

But Snuka's most lasting "accomplishment" was turning rulebreaker and joining forces with Buddy Rogers.

"I could care less what fans voted," said Snuka. "I don't listen to morons."

WWF champion Bob Backlund finished a strong fourth. As always, his comments reflected grace and humility.

"A fan's love is worth more to me than a million title belts," said Backlund. ☐

MOST HATED WRESTLER

Undoubtedly, the persuasive factor in Funk's many votes was his mindless attack on Dusty Rhodes prior to the champion's second rematch against Harley Race. Repeatedly, Funk has explained away that attack. Yet each explanation loses credibility in the face of Funk's continuing treachery. In short, Terry Funk has no scruples. Fans all over the nation recognized that, in their votes and their unrelenting hostility to Funk in the arena.

Former Mid-Atlantic champion Ken Patera finished third in fan hatred. Few rule-breakers are as universally despised as Patera. Over the years, he has consistently finished among the leaders in the "Rulebreaker of the Year" voting. His reaction?

"Third? Not surprising. Since about half of one percent of wrestling fans can write, you don't expect the intelligent ones to write in. And my fans are the intelligent ones," said Patera.

Finishing a close fourth is that paragon of Soviet treachery, Ivan Koloff. When reached by phone and informed of his finish, Koloff responded with typical nasty concern.

"Ah, Americans, Americans. You are all so weak-kneed and indecisive, I am surprised any of you would decide to place a stamp on the envelope. Where I finish in your foolish little polls is unimportant," Koloff said. "All that matters is where I finish in the ring. In there, I am always first." □

MOST POPULAR WRESTLER

2nd Place—ANDRE THE GIANT

3rd Place—IVAN PUTSKI

4th Place—MR. WRESTLING II

who took the time to mark me down as most popular. I do not like to break a measure of affection down to such cold-hearted details as finishing first and second.

"All I know is my fans think I am number one. That is all that matters. Oh, and I want to congratulate my friend Dusty Rhodes. If I do not win, I want Dusty to win," said Andre, always gracious.

Polish Power finished a strong third. As usual, Ivan

Putski's magnetic personality galvanizes fans around voting time.

"My fans always come out and vote for me," said Putski. "I never have to ask them to vote. They always seem to know when the time is ripe for their version of Polish Power to crash through the mail.

"To me, most popular wrestler is the most important category. If I don't have my fans screaming my name, it doesn't seem important whether I win or lose," Putski continued. "What makes my whole night is the fans yelling for me. Ah, nothing like a wrestling fan, is there?"

The Southwest bombarded the ballots with support for their favorite, Mr. Wrestling II.

"That many people voted for me?" II exclaimed happily. "That makes me feel good. To think so many fans sat down and mailed in a ballot, just because they like and respect my wrestling. That is ample enough reward." □

MOST IMPROVED WRESTLER

the fans is awfully sweet icing on the cake."

Another blond, Eddy Mansfield, finished second to Rich. About all Mansfield and Rich have in common, however, is the color of their hair.

"What a disgrace finishing second to a bum like Rich," snarled Mansfield. "How could that happen? You sure all the votes were counted? I heard writers can't count too well. Well, I can't really care about votes like this. Anyone can see I'm better than Rich."

"I'm better looking, for starters. I got a better body. I got more talent and I'm smarter. Maybe Rich should win most improved. He is a bum who had no where to go but up. Me, I'm already great. How can you improve on greatness?"

Third and fourth place finishers were separated by the thinnest of margins. Both Kevin Von Erich and Ted DiBiase expressed appreciation for their fan support and vowed even greater improvement in 1980.

"Anytime a fan takes the time to fill out a ballot and mail that ballot in, you have to feel real appreciative," said Von Erich. "I like to think I've improved over the past year. If you don't improve, something is very wrong."

This most improved department is still for us young guys, said DiBiase. "To be honest, I'd much rather finish among the leaders in Wrestler of the Year or Most Popular. I want to thank my fans for voting for me and I promise them a title in 1980. That's the best way I know to say thanks." □

INSPIRATIONAL WRESTLER

of the man. Chief Jay Strongbow got his revenge, and in inspirational fashion.

Ric Flair's courage was of a different nature. After establishing himself as an enemy of scientific wrestling and alienating himself to fans across the country, Flair changed his ways. Taking such a step, he risked never having a friend in the sport. The rule-breakers naturally stopped associating with him, and the scientific wrestlers were weary of being duped. It was the fans that immediately threw their hearts and trust out to Flair.

4th Place—DUSTY RHODES

3rd Place—MR. WRESTLING II

And it is the fans that award him second place in this year's voting.

Following a close third is Mr. Wrestling II. Despite wrestling out of the Georgia area, his home base, II always found time to come back to the area to make sure the disease of Bobby Heenan's army does not overcome the state. And when Heenan discovered a technicality that could keep II from regaining a license to wrestle in Georgia, II went into seclusion until he found a way to get back. Once he did, a frustrated Bobby Heenan went on his way.

Dusty Rhodes' greatest year ever could also be considered his worst. Dusty achieved his life-long goal by defeating Harley Race and winning the NWA title. But in the well-publicized Rematch II, Rhodes' right arm was broken in a senselessly brutal attack by Terry Funk. Rhodes could have chosen not to wrestle; Race gave him the option. But he did not want to disappoint the fans. He wrestled. He lost the title. His dream was shattered. The fans who honor him with fourth place this year, will not forget. □

MANAGER OF THE YEAR

gives his all for the men he manages.

"I give a thousand percent, yes, a thousand and ten percent for my men, I'll never refuse them, no, never, all I ask is some gratitude," rambled Albano. "But do I get the loyalty I give? No! I put my life on the line every night of the week and Sundays too, yes, I risk my mind and body, sacrifice all the glory so my men can become champions. All I ask is a thank you, Captain, nothing more, just thank you, Captain.

"And what do I get? Smart-ass bums spitting off their mouths. Well, I take guff from no bum, no punk can tell me things they did, so, yes, I'd agree I'm Manager of the Year and thank you for voting for me."

Uh, Captain, you finished second, thank you.

"Then who needs it!" Albano roared.

Buddy Rogers gained much attention for his corruption of Jimmy Snuka and other rule-breakers in the Mid-Atlantic area.

"You bet I'm damn proud of what I've done, but I won't be happy until half-wits like Rick Steamboat and Jay Youngblood are outta wrestling," sneered Rogers.

Sir Oliver Humperdink's deft maneuvering of Bugsy McGraw to the Florida TV title earned acclaim from fans and a fourth place finish.

"About time genius was recognized," said Humperdink. "Me and Bugsy are going straight for Race's title." □
